

MODULE D

STEPPING UP TO A NEW LEVEL

Debt is the biggest issue in our economy, but it is not a new issue for individuals. However, the secret life of debt that people have been tortured by and ashamed to discuss in the past has now become a topic of conversation. People are starting to feel a sense of relief in being able to bring it out in the open.

Module D hits the area of debt head on. Why is this important? Because credit card companies expect people to retire with debt and individuals need to see how various strategies can help.

Now you as a CURE™ professional start to show your clients how strategies can truly help.

Are you ready to guide others in the tough topic of debt? This is a subject where your expertise will help you stand head and shoulders above other professionals – because you know how to talk with individuals about debt and help them move forward.

We start Module D by going back in time to see if this truly is a new conversation. Using material from your TEN WEEKS text, you will see that the conversation is not different. It has just become more intense.

You will learn what has been happening around debt and the organizations out there helping people turn the corner on what has been the area causing more stress and sickness than any other.

You also become skilled in a Client Management and Business Referral system that moves you to a new level as a caring professional.

You learn through working with case studies focusing on people in debt – showing you how strategies can make all the difference in the world.
